DESCRIPTION

Neva Geoffrey's melodies come together to form torch songs that take you to the depths of obscurity while remaining in your heart. With a record that emits her journey, you'll remember now-distanced moods that once possessed you as the tenderness in her voice is heard weaving through guitar strings and sweeping piano pop, or lurking in ambience just heavy enough and no heavier.

Throughout it all, Neva's narratives will thin the thickest of skins, and coax the toughest of brutes so that these thin-skinned brutes can release their softer side. Warm, ethereal songs like "Maiden Lane" introduce her unique writing style as she expresses the doubt lurking in all our thoughts, while "Glass Eyes" will help you recall your most prideful experience with love.

Her debut album The Days are Rolling on Alias Records (Archers of Loaf, Yo La Tengo, Scourge of the Sea) nicely compliments a record collection that already includes Dusty Springfield, Elliott Smith, Andrew Bird, and Cat Power.

ARTIST BIO

Bathed in the oasis of Austin in the otherwise conventional state of Texas, Neva Geoffrey left a family of musicians, bidding them the luck of the future for her own pursuit of this release and touring to follow. Prior to this endeavor, she was just east of the Pacific, exploring California academia. Now, tucked in the horse farms of Lexington, KY she is performing regionally and supporting the release of her debut album, having recently shared bills with Paleo, Kelpie, and The Duhks.

"... a truly unique voice that ignites the many lovely torch songs, pop delights and touching ballads that fill out this sumptuous, sensual and rewarding debut effort. Neva Geoffrey is a remarkable talent you'll definitely be hearing a lot more of." — ConcertLivewire

*"Don't take our gushing words for it — listen to a couple songs off The Days are Rolling at myspace.com/nevageoffrey, and settle in for a lush journey into the heart and mind of this descriptive, eloquent siren."* — LEO Weekly-Louisville
