"There are few truly insightful, passionate and hysterically funny political comedians around, and even fewer coming out of the States. New Yorker Jamie Kilstein is a shining light probing into the murkier corners of the religious right and corrupt politics of his homeland. Funny and penetrating, he's taken Bill Hicks' baton and run with it" -Time Out London

BIO (official release description not yet available)

"Jamie Kilstein kills. His show is the kind you walk away from feeling a sense of euphoria." Kilstein dissects the racism, sexism and homophobia prevalent in today's society with unrelenting ease, somehow still providing a laugh a minute...engaging, insightful and nothing short of brilliant." (The Pun - Melbourne). Jamie is truly an international comic, having toured the globe tirelessly. He's made appearances all over the United States, Canada, China, the Netherlands and the UK, having appeared frequently on Comedy Central and the BBC's The World Stands Up. He played the most talked about show at the 2007 Montreal Comedy Festival, featuring Eddie Izzard, Billy Connolly, Louis CK, Lewis Black and The Kids in the Hall. He has also been seen on The Paramount Comedy Channel in the UK, The Comedy Channel in Australia and Showtime Comedy in the Middle East. He was featured on Think MTV, Comedy Centrals Weekly Evil and is a regular on SIRIUS Satellite Radio.

Jamie was invited to the most sought after show at The Montreal Comedy Festival, the 2008 New Faces. This year he was Punchline Magazines "One Comic to Watch in 2009", a Timeout Chicago's Critics Pick, was chosen to debut at The Melbourne Comedy Festivals prestigious Town Hall, and will be bringing his new solo show to the world famous Assembly Rooms in Edinburgh. After returning from touring Asia with Aristocrats producer Paul Provenza, Jamie flew to the largest arts festival in the world in Edinburgh, Scotland. After his first show he received a standing ovation and was signed to do a series of theater shows (by renowned producer and Eddie Izzard manager Mick Perrin, also of Just for Laughs). Shortly thereafter he performed for 55,000 people at the Lowlands Festival in Holland alongside bands and artists such as: Tool, Nine Inch Nails, The Shins, The Arcade Fire, and Chris Cornell.

QUOTES

"Watching Jamie reminds me of why I got into comedy. It is like watching a combination of George Carlin and Bill Hicks" -Janeane Garofalo

"FANTASTIC! Profound and very funny. I absolutely loved it!" -Brian Eno, Grammy Award Winner and Producer of U2's The Joshua Tree

SELLING POINTS

• Jamie co-hosts Citizen Radio with Allison Kilkenny (The Nation and Huffington Post), a show dedicated to covering the stories that the mainstream, corporate media ignores.
